

Case Western Reserve University (CWRU) receives funding for research from a variety of sources including government agencies, corporations, and private individuals and organizations. To

	Charitable intent, no expectation of economic benefit or quid pro quo	Transfer of funds, property, services or anything of value from the sponsor to the institution in order to further knowledge and assist the institution in reaching a particular institutional goal or public purpose.	Mechanism to engage University to perform research with specific deliverables. Contract includes obligations for both the sponsor and the University. Creates a quid pro quo relationship.
Benefit	To CWRU by furthering university's own purposes or programs	To CWRU by  t, capital projects, or ancial aid.

Deliverables
Financial Reports	No formal accounting requirements other than customary stewardship	Regular financial and progress reports required	Regular financial and progress reports required
Managed By	Development	Research Administration	Research Administration