SUPERVISOR'S GUIDE TO STUDENT EMPLOYMENT

Introduction

Student employees can make significant contributions to Mandel School operations. For students, working on campus provides income, and can help them develop professionally, making them stronger candidates for employment after graduation.

As a supervisor, your role will be two-fold: to train the student employee in the skills and processes needed for the job, and to coach them as needed on professional workplace expectations including office etiquette, communication norms, time management, and other issues. As a coach, frequent direct and kind communication is essential.

This guide lays out the basics of hiring, training, and supervising student employees.

The Mandel School has two different recruitment, hiring and payment processes for student employees: one for doctoral students and one for undergraduate and graduate students. Differences are noted throughout this guide.

Supervisor Responsibilities :

You are responsible for ensuring student employees do not work until employment paperwork has been completed. Employment paperwork must be renewed each academic year and summer session.

If your student worker receives federal work study (FWS), you must monitor their work study earnings and limit. The Office of Student Employment must be notified when a job changes from FWS to non-FWS.

For undergraduate and some graduate student employees, time must be approved every two weeks, following the student employment approval calendar. If time is not approved, student employees are not paid.

Doctoral student employees are paid monthly. Doctoral student pay requests must be semester.

Professionalism

Professionalism in communications and behavior is the only acceptable form of interaction on campus and in related university business settings. Every employee is expected to conduct themselves in a manner that is a positive reflection of the university. When differences of opinion occur, only constructive, legitimate, and respectful forms of communication are considered appropriate.

The university does not condone the following behaviors in the workplace.

Intimidation (raised voices, yelling, screaming)

Verbal abuse, including use of profanity; humiliation via sarcasm; inappropriate physical contact; threatening-like behavior; or invading personal space or privacy.

Employees who engage in these behaviors may be subject to termination. Employees who feel they have been subjected to these behaviors should report such behavior to their supervisor, HR administrator or, if a student, to the Office of Student Employment or Office of Student Affairs, immediately. All reports of these types of behavior will be taken seriously and handled appropriately.

Beyond this, student employees are expected to:

Understand and practice the principles and actions of ethical and professional conduct including personal responsibility, honesty, and confidentiality.

Report to work at the agreed-upon time, ready to work.

Meet grooming, hygiene, and dress standards for a casual professional environment.

Carry out assigned duties and not engage in personal or class activities while at work.

Take full responsibility for the results of their efforts and actions.

Notify their supervisor in advance of work schedule changes.

Maintain satisfactory academic progress and notify their supervisor of any enrollment changes.

As a supervisor, you are expected to model, communicate, and uphold these expectations.

Creating, Posting, and Hiring for a Position

UNDERGRADUATE AND GRADUATE STUDENTS

No student may be hired without approval of the Office of Student Employment. In some cases, employment can affect a student's financial aid package so it is essential supervisors and students follow established procedures.

Positions need a job description, start and end date, month. Supervisors are expected to submit hours worked and their wage for the work to Mandel HR by the 5th for inclusion in that month's payroll.

Required Hiring Paperwork

UNDERGRADUATE AND GRADUATE STUDENTS

New Hire paperwork will be handled by the Office of Student Employment. Students must complete the following before hire: employment application, Ohio Employees Withholding Exemption Certificate or equivalent, Form W-4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate, Form I-9, Employment Eligibility Verification: this form must be completed within three days of start date. Acceptable forms of original documentation (no photocopies or scans) must be presented in person. Students cannot complete new hire paperwork remotely.

DOCTORAL STUDENTS

New hire paperwork is handled by Mandel School HR. Full time doctoral students receiving a fellowship stipend complete new hire paperwork at the program orientation at the beginning of the academic year. Other doctoral students complete their new hire paperwork upon engaging in paid employment at the university. Students must complete the following before hire: employment application, Ohio Employees Withholding Exemption Certificate or equivalent, Form W-4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate, Form I-9, Employment Eligibility Verification: this form must be completed within three days of start date. Acceptable forms of original documentation (no photocopies or scans) must be presented in person. Students cannot complete new hire paperwork remotely.

International Students

International Students must go to the International Student Services Office (ISSO) to obtain permission to work and tax confirmation forms prior to completing employment paperwork. International students must obtain valid social security cards within 30 days of obtaining employment on campus.

Employment Guidelines

UNDERGRADUATE AND GRADUATE STUDENTS

Students may work up to 20 hours per week during the semester and up to 40 hours per week during breaks at least a week long. Students may not work during times they are scheduled to be in class. Mandel School Students with field placements can work on campus up to 15 hours per week outside their field placement while it is active.

Students should sign up for direct deposit (instructions on student employment website), otherwise, paper checks can be picked up in the student employment office in Yost Hall.

DOCTORAL STUDENTS

International students on F1 visas can work no more than 20 hours each week while school is in session. Other doctoral students can work at the university no more than an average of 29 hours/week or a total of 1,508 hours over the calendar year. See the Doctoral Program Student Handbook for more information.

ALL STUDENTS

Students are only paid for days worked; they do not get paid holidays or emergency snow days, unless they work these days with prior permission from their supervisor and can work remotely.

Students can be reimbursed for work-related travel and other work-related purchases.

Student Pay Rates, Evaluations and Merit Increases

Each fiscal year, the Office of Student Employment publishes student employee wage rates and classifications, and communicates federal work-study distribution for the period. For all student employees, including doctoral students, hourly pay rates must follow these guidelines. Please read the

On-the-job Injuries

If injured on the job, the student employee must notify their supervisor and report immediately to University Health Service for diagnosis and possible treatment. If the injury requires immediate emergency treatment, the student should be transported to the University Hospitals Case Medical Center Emergency Room.

An injury report must be submitted to the Office of Risk Management and Insurance (riskmanagementandinsurance@case.edu; 216-368-1547). Issues regarding worker's compensation are also handled through this office.

Confidentiality

When working on campus, student employees may have access to confidential information

Student Employee Onboarding and Offboarding

Departments and Centers are encouraged to offer their own, more robust, onboarding process.
